Recipe for unemployed—"Golden soup; fourteen cents."

Every day will be Sunday shortly with no Saturday nights.

Better leave well enough alone when it's your neighbors.

Even the human "poet" is hard to digest when taken green.

While the machine is in motion peace reigns in the building.

You can't buy a return ticket from the C. P. R. when you're going to the bail.

Many a dollar goes over the bar that ought to go over the grocery counter.

We'd get ahead faster if some of the folks who are riding would get off and push.

Some men a born tired and put in their entire lives celebrating their birthdays.

The fellow who is continually going up in the air isn't very likely to rise in the world.

After you've practised lying for a while you can't even tell the truth so anybody'll believe it.

Pure water is a luxury. Impure water is dangerous. How can you tell jolter from which?

Just when six Claresholm men were about to climb on the water wagon yesterday afternoon, the horses started to back.

There was a time when every girl knew how to use one. But if you show a modern Princess a wash basin she will think it some kind of a musical instrument.

The Review has received a note asking why we do not celebrate Father's day. Well, father has been celebrating his day for some time past, but is near the end of his rope.

The German soldiers march at the rate of 112 steps a minute; 120 at accelerated pace, and 175 steps a minute when charging. They barely touch the ground when retreating.

If you want to see childlike innocence depleted upon a human countenance just get a look at a man when he's picking up $100 a week when his father gave him for a $5 by mistake.

In the fashion world at least women are sharing "equal rights" with men. All of the new spring coats have pockets, big pockets, convenient and ornamental. Some pockets are big enough to hold a man's salary for a year.

If shells could be made in all parts of Canada, Canadian men would go to England to make them. When the British authorities have to exert themselves to import munitions one can imagine something of demand for ammunition.

People in other cities who are fighting the influenza, lay stress on the efficacy of running the lawn mower over the weeds before they go to bed. This is a strange policy worthy of attention. The practice of spraying is not to be ignored; neither is the old fashioned remedy of pulling the pesky things out by the roots.

How Bounce Captured A German Spy

In a little village in the south of England there was a rumor circulated about a German spy, which caused much excitement among the people, especially among the gossips, who were constantly seen running from house to house and predicting all the dreadful things that were going to happen. This story was confirmed by the appearance of a stranger in the town. He was short and fat and had a bristly, military mustache, which he was always brushing with his hand. Besides this on his round fat nose was a prodigious pair of spectacles, behind which was a pair of weak, squinty eyes. He was dressed in a checkered Norfolk suit, and wore gaiters among his legs. But what made people so excited was, that he was a German which could plainly be told by his deep guttural voice and broken accent.

This story reached the village police station, and Constable Bounce was strictly ordered to watch all movements of this stranger and if his actions became suspicious to arrest him.

Constable Bounce, a big, pompous looking individual, immediately became the central attraction of the whole village. Whenever he was asked any questions about what action he was going to take, he always told the questioners he considered his plans very smart and efficient, and he wasn't afraid of saying so, either. He always told of his he were second Sherlock Holmes. "Oh, don't you worry," he said, "I'll catch him. Show you what old Bounce can do when it comes right down to a 'show down'." He little imagined that the people were laughing inwardly at him. He was the laughing stock of all the boys in the village, and he hated them as badly as they did him. The boys always talked behind his back, and of course loud enough for him to hear. The chief subject of the "laughing" was his uniform. His helmet was made much too small for him, and a little breeze would send it spinning down the road. His coat and trousers were the opposite in size. They were so large that they could have been worn by a man twice his size, and mind you, Bounce was no small specimen of the human race. Of course Bounce didn't think they were too large. He thought they fitted him perfectly, and also gave him leave to exercise a little bit of authority. Bounce's most favorite attitude was standing at a corner bending a large stick. He thought this was quite a characteristic pose, and when the people walking by him smiled, he thought they were admiring his position. Oh, yes, this Bounce was really and truly a most defensible. Try tell him anything, and you will have a bigger job than you bargained for, because he knew everything from start to finish, before you tell him.

It was only a short time after the German had arrived in town, that a little bit of excitement was caused, due to the appearance of the same man, who came marching up the street. Immediately Constable Bounce was all action. He tipped his helmet to one side to give the appearance of wisdom, and stood rigid for the German to go by. As soon as this was done he followed at a distance of a hundred feet behind.

The German led the Constable on, coasting for over a length of time that Bounce's patience gave out. But as all things have an end, and this one did, and it ended by the German turning round and looking back at him, with a warning of the collar, several miles out of the village. The German produced a large, magnificent glass and a carefully sharpened pencil, and squatted down in the ditch, and began to examine the ground.

"What's he doing that for I wonder," he muttered, the Constable, looking suspiciously. "I'll just hold him and wait to see what he's up to." Snatching the action to the word he crawled into the bushes and bunched.

The German had been looking eagerly for about half an hour, when he came to the place where the Constable was hidden. All of a sudden he straightened up, for he had found a hole, and a hole fit for a tramp but a well polished boot.

"Acht! a glim!" muttered the German, and grabbed for the shoe. But to his dismay it refused to budge. He tugged harder, and was rewarded for his efforts by a kick in the chest which wobbled the German rather suddenly. Constable Bounce then made his appearance. What's your game?"

Claresholm to Have a Ball Team After All

Some weeks ago as was stated in the Review a meeting was held for the purpose of organizing a base ball club and it was thought best at that time to let the matter drop. After considering a pickup team in event a game could be scheduled. However, the fever has been working a little more on some of our base ball enthusiasts since they have seen several games this season, another meeting was held in the Wilton Hotel parlors last evening for the purpose of re-opening the club and ball. After some discussion it was decided to form a club and the following officers were elected:

President—N. G. Holmes
Manager—E. E. Moffatt
Captain—J. E. Moffatt
Sec'y-Treas—W. Harvey

The officers have planned for three practices a week and whenever it is possible everyone who plays ball should turn out, and there is no doubt, even though it is a little late in the season, Claresholm will be able to put up a first class ball team.

When Woman Most Wishes to be a Man

is when her husband lights one for her. Cigarettes, for if women did smoke, these would be their first choice. Their pliancy, bouquet and rich incense offer appeal to any man who knows a sweet, mild smoke. The qualities are fully appreciated by the best judges of fine tobacco and you will have to reach very far and wide for a line of cigarettes as superior to ours.

SALAD SUGGESTIONS.

Here is a List of Hints For Lunches and Tea Parties.

Here are 15 salad possibilities that may help the busy housewife to obtain variety in preparing salads:

Sliced cold tomatoes and sliced hard boiled eggs served on water-cress with French dressing.

Sliced pickled beets mixed with chopped celery and served with a scant dressing made of two table-spoonsful of cream beaten with one tablespoonful of vinegar.

Sliced cold bananas, sprinkled with chopped parsley, dressed with French dressing and served on lettuce leaves. Chopped cabbage mixed with small dice of tart apples, dressed with French dressing.

Mixed celery dressed with French dressing combined with cut of walnut leaves mixed with mayonnaise dressing, served on lettuce leaves. Young extra pods boiled tender, with dressing of oil, vinegar, salt and pepper, and a little horseradish.

Peas cooked with mint leaves, served with chopped chicken on lettuce leaves with French dressing. Mixed lamb may be used instead of the chicken.

Watercress served with a dressing of equal parts of lemon juice and olive oil, sprinkled with grated egg yolk.

Cold boiled Brussels sprouts served on lettuce with a French dressing to which are added a few drops of tobacco sauce.

Cold baked beans dressed with the juice of a lemon and mixed celery, served on lettuce leaves with mayonnaise dressing, garnished with olive and sliced cold tomatoes.

Young carrots which have been cooked in stock, cut thin and served on lettuce leaves with peas dressed with mayonnaise or French dressing.

Sprigs of boiled cauliflower, slices of hard boiled eggs and slices of tomatoes served on a bed of watercress dressed with French dressing.

Two sliced beets pickled in vinegar, four boiled potatoes sliced in the vinegar juice of the beets, served on watercress or lettuce leaves with salt and olive oil dressing.

Sprigs of cold boiled cauliflower served on lettuce leaves dressed with mayonnaise.

Thin sliced boiled potatoes, sprinkled with chopped parsley, over lettuce leaves with French dressing.

Remember in making all salads that the vegetables should be of the best. Raw vegetables should be well chilled. Boiled vegetables should not be left warm. Lettuce leaves should be torn, never cut.

"Scientific Police"

The University of Lausanne (Switzerland) has a faculty named the "Scientific Police Department." It is on the same footing as the classical and scientific faculties, and is the only one of its kind attached to any university in the world.

At the head of the "Scientific Police" is Prof. H. A. Reiss, who, by reason of his wonderful detective work in tracing crime and criminals has obtained a worldwide reputation in the inner police circles of the world's capitals. He is also widely known as the "Swiss Sherlock Holmes," and has often been consulted by the Berlin, Vienna, London and Paris police departments. He has just returned from Brazil, where he was at the request of the Brazilian Government to reorganize the whole police system.

Wisdom From Inexperience.

Mr. Brown met Mr. Jones. "Any news, Brown?" asked Jones. "Nothing special," I've been reading the Sunday paper, and I find one peculiar thing in it that may be news to you."

"What is it?" "The Sunday paper says that women in ancient Egypt used to act as they pleased, live as they pleased and dress as they pleased without regard to what the men thought. Lucky we don't live in those days."

"What news, you married?" "What has that got to do with it? As a matter of fact, I'm not."

"I thought not."

Hot Potato Salad.

Three potatoes boiled and sliced rather thickly. Fry three or four slices of breakfast bacon and remove from the drippings. Into this put one heaping teaspoonful of flour, one chopped onion, one teaspoonful dry mustard, one tablespoonful vinegar, a few sprigs of parsley, salt and pepper as desired. Let this boil until consistency of cream and pour over the potatoes while still hot. This is very nice served cold also, but a more delicious dish if steaming hot and a delightful accompaniment to cold meat.

Ironing Shirt Waists.

To give a soft finish to shirt waists and delicate fabrics when ironing them use corn starch. Take one tablespoonful of corn starch, mix with a little cold water, stir into one quart of boiling water and boil two minutes. A piece of French flannel the size of a basin adds to smoothness. Iron with cold water to desired consistency.

Forest Reserves.

The Dominion Government has established forest reserves in Manitoba, Saskatchewan, Alberta and the railway belt of British Columbia, totaling 23,627,421 acres, including the timber parks, which have the status of forest reserves.

Chauliogriff.

Mr. Hinkwood—Isn't that nice picture in London. Do you think it's a Chauliogriff?

Examiner—No, indeed, I should rather think it is a reputation.

A Correspondent, Toronto.

Patience—Will you please never to be such a snigger boy again if I do not mind you?

Snigger—Rather if I will please not to punish me if I see.

HOW THE WOMEN ARE GIVING HELP

A Matter of Intuition—Sustain the Pay Roll by Purchasing "Made-in-Canada" Goods

What are the women of Canada doing about the "Made-in-Canada" movement? As usual, more than meets the eye. There never was a good movement without women in it. When the women of Canada undertake to put their sanction on the campaign that means prosperity to their husbands, sons and brothers, the success of that campaign is certain. In this case that peculiar quality of woman known as intuition, counts for more than all the logic of well-constructed argument. Women are natural economists—as well as instinctive spenders. When they endorse a policy of buying goods made by Canadians for the sake of Canadian homes, they do it as a matter of plain instinct. You don't have to reason to a woman that it's her duty to support her own cause before anybody else's. She takes it for granted.

All this movement needed to carry it with flying colors to the winning post of national prosperity was the intuitive backing of the intelligent womanhood of Canada. To them it's as obvious as the smile that disarms opposition, or the tears that conquer an enemy. There isn't an intelligent woman in Canada who doesn't stand behind this campaign to boost Canadian prosperity. Any man who feels doubtful or lukewarm about it had better introduce the subject to his wife. One gleam of her intuitive perception will be a match for all his lame and limping arguments to the contrary. This is no cause that divides families. Buying "Made-in-Canada" goods at a time like this is the one cause that unites both families and communities.

It isn't a matter of buying silk and bric-a-brac. . . .
What keeps the Canadian factory going nowadays is the main part of what you buy every day, and the small items multiplied run into a larger total than the big purchase

CANADIAN DOLLARS NEEDED AT HOME

Everybody Can Help—Where the Wholesaler Comes in—The General Welfare of Canada

Keeping the Canadian dollar at home is never more a matter of the wholesale dealer who buys in carload lots.

No matter what retailers and individual consumers may decide to do as a national self-interest campaign, the job is the man who very often controls the situation. The wholesale dealer has a wide-angle vision. He has customer ear and eye, not in one province, but in many. His parish is often as large as that of a manufacturer. His business has a national scope. To the wholesaler the general welfare of Canada is of more direct importance than it is to the retailer of the individual.

Naturally this country looks to the wholesaler to help along the "Made-in-Canada" movement, because it is going to be in his best interests to offer the retailer the goods his customers are demanding, and in his position of buying in carload lots he can do a great deal to help or hinder people in carrying out the "Made-in-Canada" sentiment.

The wholesaler who buys his goods from a foreign country is letting the reservoir leak without pumping into it. Every carload of goods bought outside of Canada means the value of a carload taken away from the purchasing power of the Canadian people which depends directly on the business done by Canadian retailers, quite as much as on the proceeds of Canadian farms and mines and factories.

We all realize the futility of killing the goose that lays the golden egg. The golden egg in this case is the ability of the Canadian people to buy goods, and the ability of the Canadian manufacturer to supply them, as well as not better, as cheaply if not more cheaply, than any other nation now competing for business.

WHAT DO YOU THINK OF THE MAN WHO DRAWS HIS PAY IN ONE TOWN AND SPENDS
IT IN ANOTHER?
